Birds of Europe: answers and facts

Each fact below is a sentence we wrote from the Wikipedia page named under it. All pages were read on 26 September 2026.

The drawings are drawn in code by ARLing, line by line, with no photographs and no AI generated images.

The coloured drawings show one way to colour them; any colours are fine.

Robin

Both male and female robins sing all year round, even in winter.

en.wikipedia.org/wiki/European_robin

Wren

Weight for weight, the tiny wren sings ten times louder than a cockerel.

en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Eurasian_wren

Magpie

Magpies can recognise themselves in a mirror, something only a few species are known to do.

en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Eurasian_magpie

Grey heron

A grey heron can stand motionless in the shallows, waiting for a fish to come within reach.

en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Grey_heron

Barn swallow

Barn swallows build their cup nests from pellets of mud carried in their beaks.

en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Barn_swallow

Kingfisher

A kingfisher dives with its eyes open, shielded by a clear third eyelid.

en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Common_kingfisher

Barn owl

A barn owl hears so precisely that it does not need sight to hunt.

en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Western_barn_owl

White stork

An adult white stork's main sound is the clatter of its bill; its voice is only a faint hiss.

en.wikipedia.org/wiki/White_stork

Puffin

A puffin can catch several small fish in one dive, holding the first ones with its tongue.

en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Atlantic_puffin

Goldfinch

Goldfinches use their tweezer-like bills to pull seeds out of thistles and teasels.
